FP---Topic Proposal

My topic would be How one's experience affect one's personality. Because this is one of the things always confuse me, just as sometimes people want to do some changes on own's personality, habits, or relationships, but some of people don't like to do any changes to their life, the only thing they want to do is maintain the current situation.

Also, one's experience have a lot of impacts on one's actions and thinking. Just as same as Emily Dickinson who is a mid-century female poet, she was pursuing live in seclusion until died. She doesn't care fame or be a nobody, enjoys the interesting of creating verses, even though at that the dark times were not kind to female writers.

In the meantime, words power also is a part of what I want to explore, I believe there are potential power in the words no matter what forms they are. From the verses of Emily Dickinson, her verses are stunning and powerful, but in that era, she didn't have more support, even get education.

And for the interviews I will start from the different generations and eras, people have formed diverse personality, such as introvert, extrovert and ambivert, etc. And I'm curious about how people formed their personality, what will change in their life, and what they will do.

Interviewer 01---Ariadna Soto

She is one of my friends from Mexico, who has an Illustration major. She is a very enthusiastic and socializing person, and loves everything about art. And she lives a very multiple family those different religions so that her mindset is very enthusiasm and supportive.

Interviewer 02---Yiran

She is also one of my friends from China, who has a Digital Media major. She is a quiet and organized people and enjoys readings, audios, social media. Usually, she likes staying chill environment and organizing everything.

Interviewer 03---Hongliang Hu

My grandpa has a variety of interesting experiences of his life, from 1948-2023. He is a very respectable and reliable person in my mind. But after years I grew up, he seems like not so perfect as usual, just as people all have the vulnerable side. I'm very expected to know what his thinking about his experiences and cultural impacts from his view is.

Overall, I want to learn from this topic is through the connections between experiences and personality to explore more sides of life. Particularly, as a major of Interaction design student, it is one of the necessary parts to know and access to my "audience" and be more open-minded and comprehensive. Whereas, there also have a most common phenomenon is the occupation's choice of people always have many very complicated factors, which is the most intuitive things to demonstrate my topic.
